BABE RUTH HIGHEST IN BASEBALL

Contract Call for Between $75,000 and $100,000 for the Season.

$500 FOR HOME RUNS

Triples Salary Paid Any Other Player in the Game Today

NEW YORK, March 6.—Babe Ruth, like a character out of a Horatio Alger book, has walked from a boy's home to a place where he is the highest paid athlete in the world.

With a contract said to call for a flat salary of between $75,000 and $100,000 a year, with an additional bonus of $500 for each home run, Ruth has put himself in the position of making more than any playing in the game for three years and more than a good many of the major league club owners.

John McGraw, the highest salaried man in the game up to the time Ruth signed his new contract, gets $65,000 a year and a percentage of the profits. Commissioner Landis draws $50,000 a year for directing baseball and Ban Johnson, president of the American League, gets $35,000 a year.

Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb, both playing managers, are understood to get between $25,000 and $30,000 a season. The great Christy Mathewson never drew more than $11,000 a year.

Ruth was getting $9,000 a year when he started his home run stunts with the Boston Red Sox. Just before he was sold to the New York Yanks for $150,000 he signed a 3-year contract for $20,000 a year. When he came to the Yanks he was given some bonuses which allowed him to make about $50,000 [illegible] became prominent [illegible] fixed up in big money [illegible] he has not always [illegible] ashed in on them. For instance, [illegible] was given a contract for $25,000 for his movie stunts but he held the check so long that it was no good when he went to cash it—the company had gone to the wall.

SEND IN PICTURES, PLEA OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

More Views Wanted in Contest Which Closes About April 1

"Send in more pictures for the chamber of commerce photograph contest," is the plea of L. H. Wilson, chairman of the advertising and publicity committee in the contest for local views for which $25 in cash prizes is being offered. There is a first prize of $15 and another for $10. The contest will close about April 1.

The contest rules are that any picture of Glendale, either street scenes, pictures of homes, woodland views or any other scene taken in Glendale may be entered. They must be without any personal advertising. The contest is open to either amateur or professional photographers.

The fact that professionals are admitted to the contest should not deter the amateur from entrance as to date the most acceptable submitted have been the work of amateurs. It is to be understood that all pictures submitted are to be the property of the chamber of commerce to be used by that organization in any way that they see fit in the matter of publicity. The winning pictures will be published and the names of the winners. The contest will close about April 1.

PATRIOTIC CORN.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Levi Randall's patriotic corn is the marvel of farmers. Randall is exhibiting grain on the ear in the national colors. On the same ear are patches of red, blue and white grains. Presumably the corn came from a mixture of varieties. So far no one has claimed to find any "pattern" indicating an effort on the part of the growing corn to achieve a flag or coat of arms. An ear of Randall's corn has been placed on exhibition in a local bank.

GOB WALKED FOR WORK.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Unable to find work at Lima, Ohio, Delbert Leist, who as a gob in the navy trod the deck during the world war, walked 500 miles to Washington to find a job. He had lived here before and even if the government is firing clerks by the thousands. Leist thought he could land a job. Congressman Cable found him temporary employment and hopes to land him a permanent job under the civil service.

Less Than the Best Is Not Good Enough Says James W. Foley

Nothing less than the best is good enough. In the world of living and working the best you have is all you can give. You have nothing more. You should give nothing less.

This is the philosophy preached tonight by James W. Foley in "The Listening Post." It is good wholesome philosophy. read it.

In the comment on the days' news an appeal is made for the enforcement of the law of the land, especially as it applies to the 18th amendment. There is comment also on the profits made in safety razors, on the own your own home" movement and other subjects.

Editorials full of snap and vigor expressing an honest opinion, an timely subjects and well worth reading, are to be found this evening on the editorial page.

Dr. Frank Crane takes for his subject "Substitutes for Common Sense." Other features including poetry, scientific facts and eastern point of view, all help to make a thoroughly interesting page.

ANOTHER SOLDIER MAKES SACRIFICE

Dwight Maxwell Begeman Succumbs to Disabilities Resulting From War

Another soldier of the United States who responded to his country's call has made the supreme sacrifice. After many months of ill health, Dwight Maxwell Begeman succumbed to his disabilities and died at Thornycroft hospital March 5, 1922. He was born November 16, 1899, in Freelandville, Ind., and was therefore but a few months past his 22nd birthday, just at the age when under normal circumstances he would be entering upon a career. He was the son of Earl M. Bergman and Louise Lillian Bergman.

In 1917 he enlisted in the navy at Indianapolis and was sent to the Great Lakes station for training.

During his enlistment he made two trips across the Atlantic in the convoy service. Later he was stationed at Brest and Poliac in France.

Begeman, who was a former resident of Glendale and a pupil at the West Glendale grammar school until he was 12 years old, entered the government hospital at Verona, N. J., as a member of the naval reserve. He was later transferred to the government hospital in Phoenix, Ariz. He was transferred to Thornycroft in September, 1921.

A military funeral under the direction of the American Legion, Glendale post No. 127, of which Begeman was a member, will be held. The Christian Science church, of which he was a member, will conduct the services. The funeral will be at the Little Church of the Flowers and interment will be in Forest Lawn cemetery. The services will be at 2:30 p. m.

THREE FACTIONS OCCUPY LIMERICK

Armed Troops Patrol City and Outbreak Feared by Citizens

LIMERICK, March 6.—Armed troops of three opposing factions in Ireland were in possesion of different parts of the city today and fears of an outbreak kept citizens in a state of anxiety.

Rebellious Irish republican army troops, numbering between three and four hundred, entered Limerick yesterday, commandeered the leading hotels and railway station. It was announced they had come to enforce the recent proclamation of the Mid-Limerick brigade of the I. R. A., repudiating the authority of the free state and pledging allegiance to the republic.

One hundred and forty troops of the Free State, under direction of the provisional government, were here to take over the military barracks, which a considerable force of British troops and auxiliaries was preparing to evacuate.

ADVOCATE BIRTH CONTROL IN JAPAN

TOKIO, March 6. — Margaret Sanger, American birth control advocate, will be permitted to spread her teachings in Japan.

It was announced today that the previous decision of the Japanese authorities to permit Mrs. Sanger to come here only as a tourist and not to allow her to lecture, had been rescinded. She will be permitted to speak in accordance with the plans which she made before leaving the United States for Japan.

Mrs. Sanger left San Francisco two weeks ago for the Orient and will arrive here soon. She will travel through Japan and China lecturing on birth control which she is understood to hold is the solution to the Orient's economic problems.

GOV. SMALL TRIED FOR CONSPIRACY

Conspiracy to Juggle Millions of State's Funds Is Charge Made

SELECT JURY TODAY

Claim Made Funds Loaned, Then Reloaned to Chicago Packers

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 6.—Governor Len Small faced trial today on charges of conspiracy to embezzle state funds.

Small, the prosecution alleged, conspired to juggle millions in state funds in order to "pocket" interest that should have been turned into the exchequer of Illinois.

It is alleged that Small conspired with Lieutenant Governor Fred Sterling and Verne Curtis, Grant Park banker, to steal the state's cash.

Millions were taken from the state treasury, the prosecution will seek to prove, and loaned to the Grant Park State bank, of which Curtis is head, at two per cent interest. Curtis, according to the indictment, then loaned the money to Chicago packers at from five to eight and a half per cent. The difference in interest was to be kept by the three, according to the conspiracy allegations.

Fifty veniremen reported for jury duty today. C. C. LeForge, Small's chief counsel, and Fred Mortimer, chief prosecutor agreed it would take several weeks to choose a jury and that the trial would perhaps last nearly two months.

STAG PARTY GIVEN BY DYNAMOS CLUB

About 45 Young Men Enjoy Pleasant Saturday Evening

If reports are to be trusted, the stag party of the Dynamos club, held Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, in North Glendale, was a successful and dynamic affair.

About 45 young men were present and in honor of their coming the rooms in which the party took place had been decorated in the class colors, purple and gold, with flowers of those hues and the class emblem—a triangle centered with a "D"—which was twined with the colors.

The program included songs by the Bible Institute quartet and solos by individual members of the quartet, also music by the Dynamos orchestra, composed of three violins, saxophones, drum, banjos and piano.

Dr. J. Anderson gave an excellent talk about the care of the body; D. L. Foster, superintendent, told some clever stories; Rev. Louis Tinning made a short talk of friendly greeting; there was an initiation which was an explosive affair, dynamite apparently being used, though no damage to the premises resulted, and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

JOHN BROWN BELT FOR ALL PRIVATES

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—The "John Brown" belt, long the apple of the buck private's eye, is at last to be seen adorning the O. D. person of that individual.

A recent war department order made it mandatory upon all enlisted men to wear the "John Brown" belt as a part of the regular equipment.

The "John Brown" belt is a poor relation to the "Sam Brown" belt worn by officers. It consists of a broad leather band around the waist, without a shoulder strap.

Twenty-five thousand of the issue belts have already been received at the Presidio.

STEEL MANUFACTURER DIES

PASADENA, March 6.—John Lambert, former wealthy steel manufacturer of Illinois, died here at 4 o'clock this morning. His death followed an illness that has clung to him all winter. He has been a winter resident here for many years. Lambert was president of the American Steel and Wire company for many years. He was 75 years old.

JITNEYS TO BE BACK

SAN DIEGO, March 6.—Jitney buses, barred in San Diego for five years, will come back. The street car company here will abandon some suburban lines and install 25 passenger buses to carry patrons to their main lines, it was announced today.

HAYWOOD AND COMRADES REPRESENT AMERICAN COMMUNISTS IN RUSSIA

"Big Bill" Haywood, American I. W. W. leader, who fled from this country to evade serving twenty years in prison for violation of the espionage act, now represents American Communists in Russia. With Haywood are William Shatoff and George Andreytchine, who fled with the notorious "Red" leader. They also face twenty-year prison terms if they return to America. Reading from left to right are Shatoff, Haywood and Andreytchine. The picture was taken in Haywood's office in Russia, and this is the first photo to reach America.

UNCLE SAM PAYING OFF DEBTS MADE DURING WAR

Cash Advanced on Bonds and Stamps Is Being Returned

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Uncle Sam, recovering from his orgy of war spending is paying off his war debt to the American people.

More than 26 billion dollars borrowed by the old man from his nieces and nephews to fight the war and to help his allies is being paid off at a rate which has just reached $180,000,000 a month. At the present rate of progress the next generation will be relieved of the vexatious tax burdens that follow all warfare.

At the end of 1921 the gross public debt of the United States was but $23,438,984,351. To offset this, Uncle Sam had a cash balance in the treasury of $487,767,529, leaving him in the hole almost $23,000,000,000 net. Just a year ago the war debt was practically $24,000,000,000, and there was half a billion in the treasury. At its peak the war debt, or more correctly the gross total debt, was $26,596,701,648.

All of this money was taken from the American people in return for liberty bonds, victory notes and other securities.

Nearly a billion dollars of the Victory loan, represented in Victory notes, has been paid off in the past two years. In all the government sold four and a half billion dollars worth of these notes after hostilities ceased. There were outstanding at the end of 1921, slightly over three and a half billion dollars in these securities. Millions of dollars worth were bought in by the treasury at a profit and destroyed through sinking fund operations. Others were received as patriotic gifts, and millions were received in estate taxes.

Treasury experts agree that good financial practice demands retirement of at least 60 per cent of the entire issue on or before maturity in April, of next year. This means that Uncle Sam will have to find the means to pay off by that time at least another billion dollars and a half. This might be done with comfort were it not for the fact that there are outstanding treasury certificates and other securities, including treasury notes and war savings certificates, in an aggregate amount of two and a half billion with maturities falling due ahead of the Victory loan.

This means that the treasury will have to continue the issue from time to time of short term notes, which will fund the floating indebtedness represented in the treasury certificates.

Despite this situation and the handicaps faced in congressional unwillingness to meet treasury plans, Uncle Sam is doing very well. He has borrowed on treasury certificates a billion and a half against this year's tax receipts, but good management will wipe this out unless a soldier bonus bill is passed or some other heavy expenditure encountered.

The treasury is in fact in the best position it has occupied since the early days of the war. The necessity for paying off tax certificates maturing, and of retiring Victory notes can be met through the issue of blocks of new short time notes which will spread the maturities, and this is the announced treasury plan. If all goes well Uncle Sam will owe a billion dollars less at the beginning of the next New Year, than he does now.

HARDING APPOINTS

WASHINGTON, March 6.—John H. Barlett of New Hampshire, chairman of the civil service commission, was named first assistant postmaster general by President Harding today. He succeeds Dr. Hubert Work, who was moved up as postmaster general.

PHONE COMPANY IS ORDERED TO SPEED UP

State Rail Commission Orders President to This District

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—The state railroad commission, in a decision handed down today on the telephone rate case, broke all precedent by ordering C. L. McFarland, president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, to move from San Francisco to Los Angeles and assume active charge of the work of bringing order out of [illegible] local chaos.

The commission held that McFarland's company must speed up its installation program and reduce the number of waiting applicants for service by certain definite dates, or suffer a reduction of present rates.

The company is now 22,000 homes behind in its installations, the commission found, and this must be brought down so that "the normal maximum of delayed installations shall not exceed 4,000 homes in all exchanges."

This normal condition must obtain, the commission ordered, by the end of July, 1922.

Penalties fixed against inadequate service were:

Consumers "out of service" one to three days may deduct one-thirtieth of the monthly bill per day; consumers "out of service" three to seven days, one-twentieth of the monthly bill per day.

Consumers "out of service" seven to fourteen days, one-tenth of the monthly bill per day, up to the entire amount of the bill. This means that where the company fails to give service for two-thirds of a month, the penalty is loss of the entire month's bill.

Penalties are not to be included in the company's operating expenses, the commission stated.

Atwater Park is taken out of the Glendale primary rate area and included in the Los Angeles county area.

Regarding the penalty of rate reductions threatened, the commission said:

"If conditions have not been brought to normal on the dates specified and if it should become apparent that there is no likelihood of the company living up to the program here set down, the commission will have to conclude that the company is either unwilling or unable to provide the service its subscribers are entitled to, and a temporary or permanent reduction in telephone rates commensurate with the poor service condition will promptly be given consideration."

PREDICT PASSAGE MODIFIED BONUS

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Passage of the modified soldier bonus bill through the house within two weeks was predicted by republican leaders today.

The house bonus sub-committee summoned for today, proposed to put into form for tomorrow's full committee session the bonus bill based chiefly on insurance certificates having a loanable value.

COMMANDERY TO SELECT DELEGATES

One of the matters which will come before the Glendale Commandery at its meeting tonight will be the selection of the two delegates to which it is entitled to represent it at the grand encampment to be held in New Orleans in April, and how the expenses of such delegates are to be financed.

The program of the commandery for March includes no special events, just the regular work of the order.

SOLDIERS' BILL TO BE TURNED IN

Certificate and Loan Measure Ready for Introduction Today

IS SOME OPPOSITION

Predicted it Will Be Satisfactory in House and Senate

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The certificate and loan soldier bonus bill will be introduced in the house late today.

Republican members of the ways and means committee made so much progress in fixing details of the measure that it was virtually completed at a meeting this morning.

What had to be done was mainly technical — getting into proper phraseology. The terms remain as already announced—cash payments to soldiers having $50 or less due them, 20-year insurance certificates with a face value of the soldiers' adjusted pay with 25 per cent of that amount added thereto and carrying a loan value of 50 per cent of the face.

Some democratic opposition has brewed against the measure.

Representative Garner, ranking minority member, holds it to be the worst from economical and governmental standpoint of any thus far drawn. He foresees that its effect on the national finances will be simply to inflate currency and cause an increase in the cost of living.

On the other hand, Representative Longworth, prominent republican leader in the bonus movement, says that there is adequate support for the bill as now drawn and he predicts it will be satisfactory to house and senate alike.

FIRST FRICTION IN HARDING CABINET

Agriculture and Interior Departments at Outs Over Forestry Service

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The first serious friction in President Harding's cabinet has arisen between Secretary of the Interior Fall and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

The dispute centers around the governmental policy for development of Alaska and the proposed transfer under a governmental reorganization of the forestry service from the department of agriculture to the department of the interior.

Although both Fall and Wallace today refused to comment on the situation, the breach is so serious, according to reliable information, that one or the other may resign.

Fall, it became known, has protested in a letter to a friend in congress that the department of agriculture, in its opposition to his policy for developing Alaska and to the transfer of the forestry service, is engaged in personal propaganda against him. The letter indicates that he has carried his complaint to President Harding. The charge is denied by Wallace's assistants.

Specifically, Fall is said to object to an article by Colonel W. P. Greeley of the forestry service, which challenges a plan to create a federal board for the control of Alaska, working under the sole direction of the secretary of the interior. Fall in his letter to a congressman says he opposes this plan, but does favor a bill giving the President power to co-ordinate and re-allocate the various government activities regarding Alaska.

Charges have been made by the American Forestry association in recent publications that "Fall is endeavoring to gain control of the public resources of the country for private exploitation. This is denied by Fall's friends, who say that he holds the only way to develop the vast resources in Alaska and the west is through private enterprise.

President Harding, it is understood, is now seeking to heal the breach between the two cabinet officers. This has been one of the principal obstacles to the submission of a governmental reorganization plan to congress by the cabinet.

Whether the dispute can be settled without one member leaving the cabinet appears doubtful, but the president is making efforts along that line.

BEGIN FIGHT FOR FOUR-POWER PACT

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The administration began to fight today for the four-power Pacific treaty.

Convinced that a coalition of democrats and irreconcilable republicans in the senate mean to destroy the treaty if it can, administration leaders set out to show the senate and the country the consequences of rejection.

Mischa Elman to Select Wife From London Admirers

LONDON, March 6.—Twenty years' wandering around the world in search of the ideal wife has brought Mischa Elman, famous musician, to London, and on Wednesday at Queen's Hall he will select an English woman for his bride.

Elman will receive applicants at a concert, but will interview prospective brides at his hotel.

"I vowed I wouldn't marry for twenty years," Elman said. "The end of the time is drawing nigh.

"The English woman is incomparable. She is all natural. I could not lose my heart to an artificial woman, such as the American.

"I do not look for a beautiful face; my wife must have a soul that would be stirred by music, but not possessed thereby. She must not interfere with my art."

CALIFORNIANS ARE GREAT READERS

Nearly 17,000,000 Books Borrowed From Libraries During Year

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—Nearly 17,000,000 books were borrowed from California libraries during the year ending June 30, 1921, according to statistical reports of State Librarian Milton J. Ferguson.

This is an increase of over 3,000,000 volumes from the year 1918-19, when the last figures were compiled. However, on account of the increase of population of the state, the average of slightly under five volumes per person remains unchanged.

The total circulation of books, to be exact, was 16,811,409. Madera county replaces Trinity county as the section of the state using the greatest number of books. Madera county figures show that every person in that county borrows nearly 9 books per year—8.9 books, to be exact.

San Diego county, where Miss Althea H. Warren, president of the state library association heads the San Diego city library, ranks second with an average of [illegible] volumes. Lassen county is the [illegible] with an average of 8.1 volumes.

The books were circulated thru the medium of 42 county free libraries, 139 city libraries, and 4182 branch libraries and deposit stations. The figures do not include the books issued from 67 law libraries, or 369 educational institution libraries.

Included in these figures are 30,263 volumes of raised letter books loaned to blind readers throughout the state.

MAN HUNT ON FOR EDWARD F. SANDS

NEW YORK, March 6.—A man hunt, spreading over New York, New England and extending to ships at sea within radio distance of this coast, was on today for Edward F. Sands, suspected slayer of William D. Taylor.

Captain of Detectives Adams in Los Angeles asked that the search be made, following receipt of a written "confession" of the Taylor murder. The "confession" letter was mailed from a Connecticut town and Adams believes the handwriting is that of Sands.

MANY FALL UNDER BAN OF RIDERS

Taft Business Men Warned by Letters From White Robed Men

SEVERAL WHIPPED

Some Sell Out at Great Loss and Leave the Neighborhood

BAKERSFIELD, March 6.—Activities attributed to "night riders" have assumed grave aspects at Taft and generally throughout the west side oil district.

Detective A. E. Cooke, field agent for District Attorney Jesse R. Dorsey, has received a letter giving him a matter of hours to leave the district, it was rumored in official quarters.

Cooke has been investigating the night riding episodes.

Rev. Van Dyke Todd, Baptist minister of Fellows who yesterday preached against lawlessness in the oil fields, today received a communication warning him against interference. On the heels of this note came a second, signed "Ku Klux Klan" and disclaiming authorship of the original note. It is said that the real "Klan" approved Todd's stand.

Guy Mensch, Fellows garage man today turned in to postoffice inspectors a letter which said in part: "We have your number. One of us will get you. Watch your step."

Robert Jackson, butcher, also of Fellows, had disappeared today following receipt of a letter telling him to leave the district, Jackson's employers said.

Oscar Richardson, oil driller of Taft, hurriedly sold his home last week at a reported loss of $2000 and left the oil fields, after he had received a letter the contents of which he did not make public.

Dr. J. R. Mason, osteopath, reported to investigators that he had been dragged from his home by masked raiders and "beaten with spiked clubs."

He exhibited cuts and abrasions. Mason did not say he had incurred the displeasure of the secret organization.

George N. Bowman, druggist of Taft, was given a beating and dragged by ropes through an oil sump by "night riders," according to a report to officials.

Bowman was told to leave the district. He sold his store last week and could not be found in Taft today.

Eli Andrews, taxi driver, disappeared about the same time. He also claimed to have been whipped by a band of masked and white robed men.

Four federal officers are said to be conducting investigations. Accusations have been made, unofficially, against certain civil officers throughout the district, charging them with taking a neutral stand in the alleged outrages. It was intimated that they were members of the supposed organization responsible.

A house, said to have been occupied by women of questionable character, was wrecked during the night and its occupants driven from the city supposedly by a band of 'night riders," according to a report received by Chief of Police Porter Munsey.

No one saw the raid, according to investigators.

The doors of the house were battered down, the furniture wrecked and the occupants missing, it was reported.

Moyse going over the present high school plant to note desirable features which can be duplicated to advantage in class rooms, laboratories etc., and the increased space needed by the various departments.

It is expected that preliminary sketches of designs for the grounds and the arrangement of buildings on the campus will be submitted at the meeting of the board of trustees Tuesday night.

HOW FLUKE-SLASHER WRECKED NOAH'S ARK

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"Yes, the dove is a nice bird," said Dr. Muskrat. "She's not very clever, but she doesn't carry tales and she makes no trouble for anyone. I'm not so sure that the folks on the oak-tree raft really appreciated the first time she visited them. They were mighty interested in Mister Noah's Ark—that's where she came from—and they wanted to know what was going on. But she'd never think to tell them.

"Anyway, they heard soon enough. She whirred off home with the bit of olive branch that the beaver had gnawed off for her to show her poor, discouraged captain how the earth was getting ready to begin all over again. And she hadn't been gone very long when that raven flapped back to them, crop full of gossip.

"'Awk!' he screeched, even before he had found his perch. 'A pity it is that you can neither fly nor swim. You've missed the fun.'

"'What What?' they chorused. 'Will the Ark be here before long?'

"'She will not.' Nothing but trouble ever put such a sparkle in the raven's evil eye. 'Her sailing days are done. She's high and dry. At least, she's high enough and she'll be dry enough when Fluke-slasher the Whale stops splashing her with his flouncing around. He's simply heartbroken.'

"You remember how the whale had been nosing the Ark along. He meant to shove her clear out to sea, where she never would go aground, even after the flood went down. It was his revenge, because Mister Noah called him a 'fish,' and that smarty Shem tried to play tricks on him.

"Fluke-slasher's done for her this time. She's stuck on something."

"'Sure,' croaked the bad bird. 'Fluke-slasher's done for her this time. She stuck on something. The minute he found out she wouldn't budge he backed off and hit her—blam! Creak, ker-smash! She budged then! Mister Noah's bow shot up in the air; down it came, spang on a big pointy rock. And that rock speared spang up through her bottom like a beak into a bug-hole. Only it won't come out.

"'Fluke-slasher's rammed her and jammed her; he's skew-geed her halfway round, but the hole just gets bigger and the rock bores deeper in. He can't dive under and lift her 'cause there are more big rocks and he's too wallerin' big. So there she hangs. And there she's going to hang till Time's tail-feathers drop out.'

"The raven flapped his wicked wings and broke into that giggly chuckle of his that makes your skin squirm."

NEXT STORY—WHAT FOLKS ALMOST OWNED THE EARTH.

Pat, while on a visit to America, became deeply interested in watching a Yankee gardener. After a while the following dialogue took place:

Yank — Some fine vegetables here, Pat!

Pat—Yes.

Yank —I once grew a cabbage, when cut in two, and the heart removed, made a grand cradle for kiddies!

Pat—Begorra! But it must have been a mighty fine one! But we have some fine vegetables in old Ireland. I once remember seeing three men sleeping on one beet!

Yank—Three men?

Pat—Sure! Policemen!

"The Silent Call," the Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production which comes to the T. D. & L. theatre Tuesday, tells the story of the cross-pulling emotions in the soul of a wonderful dog. The picture also reveals a dramatic story in the lives of human players, during the course of which the dog, Strongheart, saves the hero and rescues the heroine from their perils.

The choral club of Burbank has been somewhat interrupted in its meetings by "flu." The director and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Monroe, have just recovered from an attack and other members were laid low for a time, but are now back at work with the determination to "put over" all plans made for the coming year.

OUCH! LUMBAGO! RUB PAINS FROM SORE, LAME BACK

Back hurts you? Can't straighten up without sudden pain, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica, or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil. Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on your back and out comes the pain. It is harmless, and doesn't burn the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil from any drug store, and after using it just once you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt, or cause any more misery. It never disappoints, and has been recommended for 60 years.—Adv.

40 PER CENT LESS REALTY SALES COMMISSIONS

New Firm Inaugurates New Feature in Real Estate Field Here

Selling property on a 40 per cent less commission basis is the latest features along the real estate line to be inaugurated in Glendale. This has been established by the firm of Hahn & McKenzie, who came to Glendale recently from Cleveland, Ohio, where for ten successful years they steered their bark along the river of business. That's a long time to do business in one city and it goes without saying that while there they learned the real estate, loan and insurance business in all its branches.

In coming to Glendale and inaugurating the 3 percent commission basis for selling real estate this firm claims that it is doing a very valuable service to both the buyer and the seller of real estate in Glendale.

This firms consist of Charles F. Hahn, who has been a resident of Glendale for the last two years, and Robert E. McKenzie, whose home has been in Glendale for 14 months. They are strictly Glendale people and they are for Glendale every step of the way.

"We are operating on a 3 per cent basis because we do not believe our services are worth more than that," said Mr. McKenzie this morning. We have made money on a 3 percent basis for the past ten years and that in a section where it was much harder to sell real estate than it is right here in Glendale. There are several of the large cities in the east here real estate is handled on a 2 per cent basis, while the commission in no large city of the east is greater than 3 per cent. The 5 percent is unheard of in the east.

"We are serving the people with medium priced subdivisions on which we are building homes which can be bought on small down payments, the remainder to be paid in small monthly installments. In some instances we loan money for the financing of deals.

"We have several departments that are headed by experts, who are capable of handling any of the following: 99-year leases, factory sites, business property, residences, ranches, subdivisions, property managements, city lots, suburban homes, apartments, bungalow ccurts, business opportunities, auctioneering, contractors, builders, mortgage loans, insurance, rentals, appraisals, etc. In fact, we render a complete service.

"We have a very comfortable reception room, where an opportunity is offered the public to get stenographic work at reasonable charges. In this room is maintained a complete list of maps and data pertaining to Glendale which the public is free to consult at all times. This is without doubt the finest real estate office in Glendale.

"We aim to list nothing but property that is priced right. This is the reason why we can sell property at such reasonable figures. We have a clock in the window that symbolizes that it is time to buy real estate in Glendale. The meaning of our 'forty per cent less' is that 3 percent is 40 percent less than 5 per cent."

A THREE-MAN REPUBLIC.

BERLIN, March 4.—A three-man world republic, with regular money, postage stamps, constitution and titles—everything in fact, but a home—is being operated from a suburban villa here. Its president, Prof. Carlos Freytag, "Prince of Aran"—the republic's title—and, he claims, representative of the Oriental University at Washington, declares he has so far been recognized by Luxembourg, the Straits Settlement and the Fiji Islands. Assisted by his brother, the "Count de Foix," and "Professor Kurt Martin, Baron or Aran," he offers to sell university degrees and titles at anything the applicant can pay.

BATTERY KNOWN COMPANY IT KEEPS

Willard Is Used in 191 Automobiles Made in United States

A battery is known by the company it keeps, just as is anything or anyone else. When looked at from this angle it will be seen that the Willard battery stands "ace high" with the automobile manufacturing concerns of this country, for there are 191 car makers who include the Willard as a part of the standard equipment of their machines. This is the most wonderful record ever hung up by any battery maker.

"It goes without saying," said Mr. Kuhns of the Cizek Auto Electric Company, corner Colorado and Brand, this morning: "That automobile manufacturers know a good thing when they see it, this pertaining to a battery as well as a piece of steel from which to make parts for their cars. They are of modern business sense, and who do not buy a thing because it will save them a dollar or so of expense—it is actual value that they are looking at. When they find this real value they are willing to pay more for it if absolutely necessary, but so far as the Willard is concerned, while the value is there the price is lower than that asked for some of the inferior batteries.

"This list of users of the Willard includes many of the larger auto makers, who handle nothing but the highest grade and highest priced material. The indication of Willard excellence you could have in advance of actual use is the fact that this large list of auto makers believe sufficiently in this battery to make it a part of the standard equipment of their cars."

The threaded-rubber insulation used between the plates of the Willard constitute its principal feature. This, it is claimed, is the thing that has most to do with making this battery just a little stronger and a little more powerful than the average battery. It is the threaded rubber that gives the Willard the "long life" for which it is noted. Actual users of the Willard claims that there is ability, power and toughness a-plenty in this battery—this resulting from the carefully working out of each detail in battery design, in connection with the threaded rubber insulation.

CUT IN OVERLAND, WILLYS-KNIGHT PRICES

A deep reduction in prices of Overland and Willys-Knight cars, was announced today by officials of the Willys-Overland company. The new prices are effective immediately.

PIONEER VISITS GLENDALE SUNDAY

One of the men who helped to put Glendale on the map years ago was in the city yesterday, visiting his relatives and friends. He is E. D. Goode, who is known by some of the oldtimers as "the father of Glendale." He is living at Palms at present and said yesterday that his one ambition now is to sell his property there and return to Glendale.

Mr. Goode is the man who built the electric line from this city to Eagle Rock and later built the extension of the line up into the Verdugo canyon. He was one of the men instrumental in securing the Pacific Electric street car service between this city and Los Angeles.

Mr. Goode left Glendale in 1914 and moved to Imperial valley, where he became the owner of several of the large ranches in that county. He lived in Imperial valley until recently, when he traded his holdings there for property in Palms. Now he plans to return to this city.

Truths in Epigram

The very essence of a free government consists in considering offices as public trusts, bestowed for the good of the country, and not for the benefit of an individual or a party.—Calhoun (1782-1850).

Nothing is so dear and precious as time.—Rabelais (1495-1553).

THE FIGHTING IRISH

Some professor back in Boston, speaking seriously enough to have his remarks quoted by a press dispatch on which tolls are paid and the cost of typesetting defrayed by somebody, has learned what is the matter with the Irish, if anything is the matter with them, which no true Irishman would admit.

He has fathomed the secret of their fighting tendency, if they have a fighting tendency more than other peoples, which they may or may not have, depending on how you look at the matter. He tells us why the Irish are on their toes, hoping for a scrimmage, if such is the case.

It is not peat whisky. It is not an innate and inborn disposition to raise a ruction. It is not the disposition to tread on the tail of somebody's coat as has often been remarked in song and story. No. None of these.

It lies deeper than all that. It is not a matter of training or education or inheritance or custom, this fighting spirit of the Irish. It is a matter of diet.

Being a matter of diet, this erudite and analytical professor tells us what is the matter. Buttermilk and potatoes! There you have the whole dark, deep, deadly and damnable secret. Buttermilk and potatoes and Irish stew!

Thus we live and learn. Who had not before thought that buttermilk was not harmless and innocuous and mild? Who would have thought there was a scrimmage in a hogshead of it?

And the peaceful potato! And the Irish stew! What tragedies have lurked in them all and we did not know it!

So the matter is all explained and now for a solution of the vexed Irish question. Put a ban on the buttermilk and Irish stew! Eliminate the fighting spirit by changing the diet. The same professor says meat and eggs have made the English what they are. Why not put the English on a diet of buttermilk and Irish stew and potatoes and feed the Irish on meat and eggs for a while.

Thus we should reverse the present situation. The Irish would at last be the rulers by virtue of the meat and eggs in them. And the English would keep alive the spirit of the shillaleh and the blackthorn stick at the Donnybrook fair. It would be a change for the better.

Let the professors who dig all these facts out of the past and the sanctum and give them to us. They will, if they do not enlighten us, and they are a great help toward the true enjoyment of the silly season.

ANOTHER PRINCESS MARY

Mary has been sued for a pittance of something over a hundred thousand dollars and has come off victorious. The testimony is interesting as indicating that there is something more to successful movieship than mere artistry, and that one of the requirements is that of diplomacy in the inducing of managers to raise salaries, in this instance the testimony that Mary's was raised from $4000 to $5000 a week.

Five thousand dollars a week is a comfortable compensation and we are constrained from the verdict to believe that Mary got the raise herself without extraneous assistance or intermediation or anything of the sort. If anyone else had materially assisted in bringing about this increase, certainly a hundred thousand dollars would be a fee little enough. But the jury says one of the two parties to the suit was a liar and it was not Mary. This would seem to fix the opprobrium rather definitely upon the other party.

Naturally there was jubilation in the House of Pickford. Mary kicked her heels up from a steamer trunk and Doug laughed and other attaches and members and dependents of the royal house were rejoiced. For it is a good deal of a royal house, with an income of half a million to a million dollars a year. Enough to make any struggling editor jealous, much as he realizes his comparative worthlessness and insignificance.

PRINTING PRESS MONEY

Some rather entertaining and captivating financial schemes are put forth from time to time by persons who would assist the needy, restrain the bankers and make prosperity all at the same time.

One of the latest is that of the Ford paper which would have the government just print and issue money for any purposes, tie a string to it, and when the purpose was served, pull it back out of circulation. This would stop the interest-grabbers from preying upon the country and would serve all needs with fresh money at all times right from the press.

There is something about the plan like the pouring of water and whitewash through a stuffed cow and getting all the milk we want. If the plan will serve in one instance it ought to serve in all instances, and if we can issue a million we can issue a billion just as well. Or we can issue enough to pay the whole debt of the United States and restore prosperity by pouring new bills into the channels of trade.

The last time the plan was tried in this country was by the Confederacy in the civil war when it took a couple of thousand or ten thousand dollars to buy a pair of shoes. The printing presses worked overtime, but the money was no good. There is such a thing as having too much money in circulation, pleasing as it is to have a lot of it now. It is the fact that money is a bit hard to get that makes it valuable and desirable. That is why people work for it. To issue, say, a billion dollars for the payment of a soldiers' compensation adjustment sounds pleasing. But it would have a tendency to lower the value of money and increase prices. And there is nothing pleasing in a period of prices too greatly increased.

We fear the old way will have to do. Printing press money will not arouse any great enthusiasm among those who have observed the results of pure fiat in the issue of currency. That system which carried to its limits becomes an absurdity is dangerous. And surely the absurdity of the issue of millions and billions of money for all purposes at any time with pure printing press activity behind it is apparent.

A bond is of no value unless somebody will buy it. Neither is a paper dollar.

SELF-RESTRAINT

A social analyst in a neighboring city has discovered what is wrong with the world. It is lack of social discipline. People do not restrain themselves. They give way to passions and appetites and desires. The right self-restraint would solve all social questions.

The statement is true, but it is not in the nature of discovery. The truth is very, very old. Adam was unable to restrain himself. He ate the apple. As a consequence he was cast out. Cain was not able to restrain himself. He killed Abel. And the brand of murder was first upon him.

So down through the ages has been the lack of restraint. Kings have been unable to restrain themselves. War and pillage and murder have followed. Great conquerors have been unable to restrain themselves. Countries have been wrecked and devastated and peoples killed.

Individuals have been unable to restrain themselves and we have had murder and theft and crimes of violence. The lack of self-restraint has been at the root of all crimes and misdemeanors.

Education has for its purpose the teaching of intelligent self-restraint. Its aim is, not only to discover and make advances in knowledge, but to check and temper and restrain the sometimes rebellious human spirit.

So the social analyst is merely stating a truth that is as old as man himself. The cave man knew nothing of self-restraint. He took what he wished how he could when he wanted it and where he found it. That is the tendency of the animal always. It is merely a bundle of appetites. It knows nothing of checking or tempering or restraining them.

With the formation of a civilized society we find there are many things we must and should give up if we are to live in reasonable peace, harmony and order. So, as we do or do not practice intelligent self-restraint, we do or do not progress as a society.

But the doctrine prevailing among many disciples of material advantage in the world—that of the most to the strongest, does not make for self-restraint. We need a lot of training, beginning at the very foundation of character, before we shall inculcate self-discipline and restraint.

Education is a slow process. The formation of a character may take several life times instead of one.

Every man knows how other men ought to do things.

This world has no love for the lover who loves only himself.

Hope makes hopeless fools of some people.

Substitutes for Common Sense

By DR. FRANK CRANE

"Half the opinions and prejudices of mankind," says Hazlitt, "those which they hold in the most unqualified approbation, and which have been instilled into them under the strongest sanctions, are opinions, not which they have ever thought, felt or known one title about, which they have taken up on trust from others, which have been palmed on their understandings by fraud or force, and which they continue to hold at the peril of life, limb, property, and character with as little warrant from common sense in the first instance as appeal to reason in the last."

Common sense is so called from the fact that it is most uncommon. Most of us are content with handy substitutes. For common sense implies thinking which is always a most painful process. Among the substitutes for common sense we might mention.

Prejudices. We get some sounding, specious idea lodged in us as a wandering seed is lodged in a garden, and are never rid of it.

Mob Mania. It is this which makes wars and fashions.

Expediency. It is easy to fall into the delusion of accepting an opinion because it seems to work well, rather than because we think it is true. Most current mortality is merely more or less clever expediency.

Authority. A bit of nonsense or claptrap goes a long way with the sanction of a great name.

Advertising. A perfectly foolish statement reiterated often enough will become as strong as a self-evident truth. This is the secret of propaganda, which is usually the drowning of common sense under a sea of catch-phrases.

Party. Men love to give up their intelligence to some sort of organization which will do their thinking for them and relieve them of responsibility.

Respectability. A good many of our opinions we hold, not because we really believe them, but because the expression of them gives us a certain standing among our fellows.

Contention. Quite a number of people hold views simply because they are opposed. If there were no one to contend with them they would soon abandon these notions, which are useful only for strife.

Stubbornness. We hold a number of opinions simply because we have held them before. We follow ourselves, the worst of leadership.

Passion. Many of our convictions arise from our feelings and not from our judgment.

The only way to be secure in common sense and to give ourselves a reasonable guarantee that we will follow its dictates is:

To maintain the entire freedom of our judgment.

To trust no conclusions that do not fit in with our experience.

To follow our deepest instincts and trust no specious reasonings that are contrary to the best elements of human nature.

And finally, to be truly loyal to the truth as we see it, and to follow it both with courage and humility.

At the LISTENING POST

The best you have.
That is good enough.
Nothing less is enough.
Nothing more can be expected.
Because you can give no more than the best you have.

* * *

An old friend invites you to dinner.
He may not be in circumstance of wealth or luxury.
He may be struggling along.
And the table may not be spread with delicacies from the field and pen and orchard.

* * *

But he gives it to you, simple as it is, with heartiness and gladness and generosity.
He seasons it for you with a fine hospitality.
You are welcome to the best he has.
And he gives it.
And if your spirit is the right one, it is a repast fit for all the gods there may be on Olympus.

* * *

It is the best he has.
He can offer you no more.
It is the very breadth and limit of fine hospitality.
If it be only bread and meat and salt.

* * *

In the world of living and working you can give the best you have.
That is all you can give.
Because you have nothing more.
But you should give nothing less.

* * *

Because you cannot give as much as wealth.
Or genius.
Or special talent.
Because you cannot give the services of the great ones of the earth.
That is no reason you cannot give with the same spirit.
The best you have.

* * *

You meet the small boy on the street.
He has a pocket full of very wormy and very wrinkled and withered apples.
He selects one for you.
It is not a juicy and red-cheeked and selected apple that would bring fifty cents at the breakfast table.
It is a withered and wormy and wrinkled and green one that he has rubbed on his trouser leg to make shine.

* * *

But it is the best he has.
He is a philanthropist.
He has the right spirit.
He did not give you the wormiest and wrinkledest and greenest.
He gave you the best he had.
And he made as great a gift as any philanthropist or millionaire or benefactor of the race.
In proportion to his possessions.
He selected the best he had for you.
And gave it to you with his whole generous willingness.

* * *

You are a workman.
A friend.
A merchant.
A whatever you may be in the world.
And to take your place with the elect of earth of all time you merely have to give the best you have.

* * *

If you give advice.
If you sell goods.
If you traffic in skill or experience or service of any kind.
It is merely necessary to give the best you have.
You have done all you can.
It is enough.
No one could ask more.
But you should not be contented with less.

* * *

Here in this Listening Post for instance:
Not brilliance or literature or flight of high fancy or anything like.
Just the best we have.
Given with sincerity and generosity and friendliness.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Rose of the World—By William Butler Yeats (1865——)

Who dreamed that beauty passes like a dream?
For these red lips, with all their mournful pride,
Mournful that no new wonder may betide,
Troy passed away in one night funeral gleam,
And Usna's children died.

We and the laboring world are passing by:
Amid men's souls, that waver and give place,
Like the pale waters in their wintry race,
Under the passing stars, foam of the sky,
Lives on this lonely face.

Bow down, archangels, in your dim abode:
Before you were, or any hearts to beat,
Weary and kind one lingered by His seat;
He made the world to be a grassy road
Before her wandering feet.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE HAPPY MAN

[Atlanta Constitution]

The happiest man in the world has been found by the Lincoln Journal. He lives in North Georgia and he has six fiddles, ten children, thirteen hounds, a deaf and dumb wife and a moonshine still that has never been spotted by law enforcement officers.

THE MARVELS OF MODERN INVENTION

[Washington Post]

"If the world progresses in the next fifty years as it has in the past fifty, man will be able to enjoy every whim that the fondest wishes of the poets could imagine," says Joseph F. Dutton of Atlanta, Ga. "Shortly after our Civil war the world began to get its great inventions," continued Mr. Dutton, "and as a result today the average man is able to enjoy blessings that were not even dreamed of a half century ago. Take, for distance, the talking machine. When that particular invention was getting its start in the world it did not amount to much. True, it did reproduce sound, but the sounds were mostly gratings and raspings. Now a man may sit in his living room at home and hear the songs of the great masters with almost as much enjoyment as he would if he heard the individual on the stage. In fact, I sometimes believe that I would rather hear the machine-made music than that of the original voice.

"We do not realize the blessings that are ours. They came so fast upon us that while were amazed at the magnificence and splendor of one, we were suddenly taken off our feet with the advent of another. Invention has followed invention with such rapidity that the mind marvels at the constant stream of things designed to make life more pleasant. I cannot help imagine what our grandfathers and grandmothers would say were they alive today and saw what was going on. Perhaps I should go back as far as our great-grandparents, for they are the ones who would believe all this impossible."

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

Man-sized dolls are quite the fashion with a certain class of women in Paris. Merely reversing the usual order—doll-sized men for fad-crazy women. What a feeling of pride one must experience in having seated next to them in restaurant or theater a more or less lopsy, wild-eyed, carmined-lip mannikin! What a satisfaction there must be in noting the amusement and the comment of those about one!

Some of us are very easily satisfied, are we not? It pleases us more to think that we are the center of attention than it would to accomplish some great deed. In fact, we never think of ourselves and great deeds as having any possible relationship. We have no ambition before that of satisfying the present fad or whim. Maybe we don't realize this, but actions show it and others note it. Rather childish, isn't it? No wonder that a mannikin can fill the day with pleasure.

But we don't want life to be serious? We want it to be playtime? None of us want always to be thoughtful and serious. If we insist on only one, no matter which one, we lose the other half that might be ours. The serious times are not necessarily unpleasant or unhappy. Indeed they are not. In them we gain greater capacity for real enjoyment. We can enjoy full all the more for the contrast.

What terribly little affairs we allow to fill our lives! And then when life grows stale and unattractive we wonder why. If we turn the glass inward we'll see the reason.

OUR RAILROADS IN 1921

[New York Times]

A decline was registered in railroad traffic during 1921 of 23.3 per cent under that of 1920, the greatest ever recorded in American transportation history, according to the Association of Railway Executives.

Compiling the estimates from reports to the interstate commerce commission, the association, in a statement issued today, said that in 1921 the number of tons of freight carried one mile in the United States was 344,167,000,000, or 104,390,000,000 less than the ton-miles of 1920.

The decrease in the eastern district was 24½ per cent; in the western 22½, and in the southern 20.6.

WHO NEEDS THAT BONUS?

[New Haven Journal-Courier]

It would be interesting to know how disabled soldiers in the hospitals feel about the bonus. With billions applied to the well, will the sick be as diligently cared for by a jaded congress?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

That the consumption of intoxicating liquor has been reduced about 70 per cent as compared with the amount consumed before the country went dry, is the statement made by the Washington (D. C.) Post, which has been a bitter and vigorous opponent of prohibition.

The New York Evening Post, quoting Charles Foster, former superintendent of the District of Columbia workhouse, says, "Since national prohibition went into effect the population of the workhouse of the District of Columbia has dwindled to such an extent that at times the number of prisoners resembles an assemblage responding to a call to donate money for an unpopular cause."

The Buffalo Times in an editorial advocating the repeal or a modification of what it terms "an unjust, harsh, oppressive, prodigal and un-American statute," says that prohibition should not be permitted to "perpetuate its direful sequels of cost, waste, discontent, resentment, crime and distress."

There you have something from three newspapers, none of which are friendly to prohibition. All admit that the saloon has gone, that it will never come back and nobody wants it, but—

The plea is put forth for beer and light wine. The last stand of the liquor crowd with all its wealth is being made along these lines. If beer and light wines can be brought back it will be easier to manufacture and sell stronger liquor with little fear of detection. All the old, worn out and exploded stories of the boon to workmen of a glass of beer to wash down their lunch and such twaddle is being revived.

Millions of dollars are being spent in propaganda and millions more will be available for corruption just as it was in the past. The liquor interests are desperate, but it will avail them nothing. The day is about here when an aroused people will demand and see to it that the eighteenth amendment is enforced. It is the law of the land and should be respected. If the majority of people do not desire prohibition then they can repeal this amendment to the constitution in the same manner that they adopted it.

We haven't noticed that any barbers have gone out of business, but there must be a tremendous number of men using safety razors. In 1921 the Gillette Safety Razor company earned $7,008,564. Extra blades to the number of 19,531,861 dozens were sold and there was a turn over of 4,248,069 razor sets. This brilliant achievement was accomplished by a comprehensive merchandising campaign backed up by intensive and effective advertising.

It would not seem possible that so many razor sets and blades could possibly be sold, but the dividends paid by the Gillette company substantiate these figures. It would appear that if you have something good to sell that the trick can be turned by letting the people know about it.

An "Own Your Home" movement is being fostered by the California Real Estate association following the adoption of the project at a meeting of the state convention. The man who owns his own home takes a vital interest in the affairs of his community. He becomes a better citizen, a booster and an asset to the community. Men who own their own homes are always desirable citizens. Do you own your own home? This question will be asked you when the drive instituted by the real estate association is on. Be prepared to answer the question in the affirmative.

Some day Los Angeles will be the third city in point of population in the United States. Last month it was the third city in the country in the amount of building permits, being topped only by New York and Chicago. There is no section of the country showing greater progress than Los Angeles county. With the trade of the Orient revived now that peace matters are settled in the Pacific, the entire western coast of the United States should strive as never before.

Two men fainted in public places in New York within 24 hours and were robbed of property totaling more than $150,000. One man lost $75,000 in diamonds stolen from a wallet in his pocket. He was a diamond importer. The other man withdrew $78,000 from a brokerage house because of alarm over recent failures. He, too, carried his fortune in a wallet. The only lesson that can be drawn from this is that men liable to fainting spells ought to leave their wallets in the safe deposit vaults.

Recalling the early days of the American navy when it was customary to fire a shot across the bow in order to halt a ship, comes the story from Boston that the Coast Guard Cutter Tampa was compelled to fire a shot across the bows of a schooner which was attempting to escape detection. The shot did the work. It is almost unnecessary to state that the schooner was loaded with bootleg whisky and gin.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Some one hit me on the back this morning as I doddered along the street, wrapped in my customary brown study. If the stealthy foe had been a small man I would have jarred him on the maxillary, for that wallop between my shoulders was stiff enough to break down a cantilever bridge. But the foe was not small. And he seemed so darned glad to see me—so absolutely overflowing with health and happiness and pep—that I involuntarily grinned back. I didn't want to. I preferred to go on hating him for a time. But you can't hate a man who fairly glows good cheer.

"Never saw you look better, Mickie," said I.

"Never was any better," said Mickie. "I feel too good to be true."

The important thing about this episode is that the last time I saw Mickie he was down and out physically. He was curved in, his ribs rattled, his eyes were dim, the flesh around his jaws had puckered somehow and his conversation bore arrant traces of that condition known as nuttiness. Mickie wanted to hold me by a buttonhole while he told me of all the things that were wrong everywhere. His eyes became so flaming and venomous that I grew actually scared. Next day I got the news:

"They've necked poor old Mickie and taken him off to the boobery."

I was so full of curiosity that Mickie saw it. See it? He couldn't help seeing it. It was as obvious as a street car. So he told me the story. It appears that it wasn't poor old Mick's mental apparatus that had crushed, but his teeth. Something had gone wrong with his entire chewing plant. Various little sacks of poison hived themselves under each tooth, and every time he wiggled a jaw that venom was shot into his system. He was not insane. He was poisoned. But he looked as nutty as a pecan field near Atlanta.

Mick doesn't like the new idea very much. He has to take his apparatus out and let 'em cool every now and then, and he still feels that he is masticating his meals with some other man's chopping machine. But he is able to talk sanely and connectedly again, and he doesn't feel that the world ought to be destroyed and the holds broken, and he is so well that he hurts. Trouble is he has become an evangelist. He wanted to pry my mouth open right there on the street corner to look for trouble. I felt like a horse in the hands of a gyp.

TAKE UP STUDY OF "SIGN OF DAVID"

Members of the dramatic section of the Tuesday Afternoon club had an excellent meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Meadows on North Brand boulevard with about twenty present.

The principal features of the program were the reading by the curator, Mrs. Raymond E. Chase of a play called "Every Youth" by a new playwright, and a review which she gave of the plays of 1920-21 which was exeedingly interesting.

The section decided to take up the study of Stephen Phillips' "Sign of David," which will be commenced at the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. L. G. Sherman.

Following the program, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING SATURDAY AFTERNOON

A very pretty home wedding took place Saturday afternoon at 237 North Cedar street when Mrs. Stella Marsh and George Newman were united in marriage by Rev. Nelson Marsh, uncle of the bride. The marriage took place at the home recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Newman which had been beautifully decorated with smilax, ferns and yellow acacia bloom. Only near relatives and close friends were present as witnesses. Mrs. Newman formerly resided in La Crescenta and Mr. Newman is an ex-service man with a fine record.

PRETTY LUNCHEON FOR VISITOR

Ard Eevin, the home of Mrs. Daniel Campbell on Highland avenue, was the scene of a pretty luncheon the latter part of the week in honor of Mrs. Mackey of Milwaukee, Wis., sister of Alexander and George Mitchell, who is spending the winter in Glendale. Covers were laid for eight, all relatives or friends of the guest of honor.

CHANGE PLACE OF NEXT MEETING

The parliamentary law section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will not meet at the place first announced, but instead at the home of Mrs. Perry, 111 North Louise street, at 1 o'clock Wednesday of the present week. Mrs. Harry Greenwalt is curator of the section.

WOMAN TAKEN FOR THEFT OF CREAM

The alleged theft of a pint of cream from in front of the Elite Sweet shop at an early hour Sunday morning resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Ratler, 205 East Harvard street. Several complaints have been made by the Elite shop that cream has disappeared from in front of the store in the early morning.

Patrolmen Nunn and Kincaid watched the store Sunday morning and saw Mrs. Ratler take the bottle. They took her to the police station, where she was held until court opened. When she appeared before Police Judge F. H. Lowe she entered a plea of guilty and said that she did not intend stealing the cream, but that her sister had come to visit her from Los Angeles and there was no cream for the coffee. She said she came downtown to purchase some but all of the stores were closed. She said she took the cream and intended to come down and pay for it when the store opened. Her trial was set for Wednesday morning and she was released on her own recognizance.

ORCHESTRA DISBANDS

A spirit of antagonism towards this well meant endeavor in which I entered a few weeks ago prompts me to discontinue. Although I had been given the privilege of using room at the high school I found that preparations were never made except for the first rehearsal. A few members of the orchestra were quite regular in attending rehearsals but others failed to see the significance of necessary regularity. Under these circumstances I cannot see why I should waste my energy and money and I therefore leave the field with little regret, before going through a dismal failure.

FUMES ARE CARRIED ABOVE THE ROOF

One of the health features of the modern gas furnace not understood by everybody is the fact that the air chambers are separated from the fire by heavy welded steel. There is no chance for fumes to penetrate this heavy steel. The fumes are carried above the roof by vent pipes, while the pure warm air goes into the rooms.

U. S. L. BATTERY AWARDED C. S. McKEE

C. S. McKee wins the U. S. L. battery.

About a week ago the Glendale Battery and Ignition Service, 120 South Maryland, offered to give a U. S. L. battery, for which this firm is agent, free to the fellow holding the lucky ticket at the end of the week, a ticket being given free to every owner of an automobile in Glendale who called at this establishment during the week.

The drawing for the lucky ticket took place at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening, the judges being representatives of the local newspapers. To G. M. Lincoln, 237 North Jackson street, fell the honor of picking out the ticket. After the box containing the tickets was well shaken, Mr. Lincoln drew ticket No. 323, on which was written the name of C. S. McKee, 420 West Wilson street, who is the owner of a Dodge car.

BARBARA'S

STRANGE? NO, NOT AT ALL—for I know as soon as I see the name, RELIABLE MEAT MARKET—1502 South San Fernando road—that the meat which they sell is absolutely A-1—the best on the market! Danner will not sell any but the very first quality—and his prices on the choicest cuts compare most favorably with the cheaper cut-rate markets! This morning I couldn't resist buying a thick, juicy roundsteak—that I will serve for dinner as Swiss steak! And we're all so fond of it—particularly cooked in the old-fashioned way—with a little bag of spices for flavoring! Stop in at the Reliable Meat Market—and ask Mr. Danner to show you the delicious roundsteak cuts which he carries!

ORANGE CREAM FILLING

White of 1 large egg; juice of 1 large orange; 2 cups confectioner's sugar. Put egg and orange juice in deep bowl, and sugar gradually, beating long and hard until creamy and of consistency to spread. Spread on cake when cool.

ON MONDAY MORNING — just as regularly as the clock strikes nine—Barbara makes a "B" line to the GATEWAY MARKET GROCERY—the corner of San Fernando road and Brand boulevard. You see, they carry such a complete stock of all the high-grade and nationally advertised goods—that a visit there is always an inspiration for tempting meals! Then, too, another important factor in buying for a family is price—and at the Gateway Grocery you may be sure of value received—low prices and excellent quality! If you simply call Glen. 2361-W each morning, your order will receive immediate attention—and an early delivery! The Gateway Market habit— is a habit well worth cultivating!

Tartar sauce is made of one pint of mayonnaise dressing, three olives, one gherkin and one tablespoon of capers. Chop olives, gherkin, capers finely and add to dressing.

AS SOON AS YOU SEE the stamp on meat that says "GLENDALE MEAT MARKET" you may know that there is none better on the market! Mr. Ingledue simply will not allow inferior grades of meat in his market—and those who are in the habit of doing all their shopping there know full well that his meat is excellent! "Yes," you're thinking—"but the price is fancy too!" No, that is where you're mistaken, for although the very finest quality meat is sold at the Glendale Market—634 East Broadway, Mr. Ingledue has so reduced his overhead expenses that his prices may really be compared most favorably with all other shops. In fact, it has been said, that when quality and service is considered, the prices at the Glendale Meat Market are the lowest in town! Call Glendale—— and they will deliver free of charge!

If you put your loaf bread, cold biscuits or baked sweet potatoes in your fireless cooker just after you have taken out the dinner, they will be as warm and soft as if freshly baked, for supper.

BARBARA HAS CHOSEN Monday to shop for you, Mrs. Glendale, because on that day it has been her experience, most cupboards are bare. And oh! how she loves to visit here and there in the markets and stores, always searching for dainty and tempting eatables to grace your table. But one difficulty faces her now—and that is, the finding of original and tasty recipes! One so often tires of preparing food in the same way, and it would be so much better enjoyed if fixed just a little bit differently. Don't you suppose, my dear, that somewhere in that old cook book or in the drawer of your desk you might find the recipe for that mayonnaise dressing or that wonderful pudding your friends always enjoy so thoroughly? If you will simply send it to Barbara's Basket, care of The Press, she will most certainly appreciate it!

HOT ROLLS FOR SUNDAY DINNER are as much a part of my life—as—well, as Sunday itself! That's why we're so glad the PURITY BAKERY of 718 East Broadway remains open all day Sunday—for they bake a fresh batch of their wonderful rolls every morning! Their specialties are the popular napkin, Parkerhouse and finger rolls—and then they also bake rolls of the courser flours! One nice thing about the Purity Bakery, too, is the fact that everything they bake is every bit as good, (and a little bit better, in my mind,) than those one bakes at home! Mrs. Cress has her own "home recipes" that she uses entirely—and as they call for nothing but the very best of ingredients her bread, rolls, cakes and pies, are very nourishing! Make the Purity Bakery a Sunday habit!

Quickly-baked rice pudding is never creamy. Bake it slowly and keep the skin on the surface intact, as it forms a covering that prevents the milk from evaporating.

I CAN'T EVEN THINK OF THE WONDERFUL nut sandwich I ate at the VIRGINIA BAKE SHOP, 634 East Broadway, this morning, without being hungry all over again! Mr. Billadeau was just making them as I dropped in—and indeed they were tempting! Made of the flakiest pastry—split in the center and spread with a delicious frosting just covered with nuts—and then frosted and "nutted" over the top! I just wish you'd stop in at the Virginia Bake Shop and try some—you're missing something every day you wait! Of course they're just a sample of the rare deliciousness of Virginia Bake Shop dainties—but I know once you have tasted them you will be every bit as enthusiastic as I am!

I JUST LOVE to go down to the GATEWAY MARKET BAKERY, the corner of San Fernando road and Brand boulevard and simply browse around through the kitchen to my heart's content! Their kitchen is always so spic and span—just like's mother's—but far more interesting! For instance, this morning when I dropped in they were just taking those wonderful golden brown loaves that we all enjoy so, from the mammoth revolving oven. And that oven simply fascinates me—for it is at once sanitary and efficient to the nth degree! This is, however, the keynote of their entire plant—as you will see when you drop in. Ask to see the kitchen—they will be more than glad to show you around!

MY MOUTH JUST WATERED for a real, old-fashioned New England boiled dinner, today, when I saw that delicious, freshly corned beef at the EAST BROADWAY MEAT MARKET—the corner of East Broadway and Adams street. It's the best ever—sugar corned, and so perfectly fresh—and then, too, they were selling it at 15c, 18c and 20c the pound (depending of course upon the cut)—so, here I am, with a generous cut of corned beef, a wonderful big cabbage, and the carrots, turnips, potatoes, and all the other "fixin's!" The beauty of buying at the East Broadway Market, is that ou can always get the very best of meats at lowest prices as well as fresh fruit and vegetables in season! But, my dear, next week when I've returned from the East Broadway Market, I will have a really, truly surprise for you! Three guesses 'till then!

HAVE YOU EVER TASTED such spiced doughnuts, as those made by the SANITARY HOME BAKERY—1102 East Broadway? Of course not—for they're in a class by themselves! One thing you'll have to admit—they certainly do know how to bake doughnuts of all kinds! Yum, yum—it makes me hungry to think of the wonderful raised and cake doughnuts they turn out, to say nothing of these delectable jelly doughnuts, or "Bismarcks"—as they are sometimes called! When you want a rare treat—something unusually good—just stop in at the Sanitary Home Bakery—and all your dreams will be satisfied! They remain open on Sundays, too, you know!

When loosening a cake from the center tube of cake pan use a steel knitting needle of fair size. This will move around the tube easily, and not crowd or cut center of cake as a knife is liable to do.

AT LAST I'VE FOUND THEM—and I should have known that, if anywhere in Glendale, I would be able to buy fresh shrimp and oysters daily at CASWELL'S GATEWAY MARKET—the corner of San Fernando road and Brand boulevard! There you will find a variety of fresh fish in season—and the most delicious shell fish—lobster, crab, shrimp and oysters—at lowest possible prices! Mr. Caswell makes a specialty of high-grade meats at low prices. Just call Glendale 2361-W and leave your order — they will deliver promptly!

LARGE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING

All Available Space in City Hall of Eagle Rock Filled

Sitting on the counters, filling the standing space, with all the chairs occupied in the scant quarters of the room dignified by the title of city hall, the largest representation of Eagle Rock townsmen and a few women that is on record, was present at the meeting of the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening.

The attendance was somewhat of a surprise to the president, W. L. Miller, as the business to be taken up, though important, was not more so than that which is usually discussed at the monthly sessions. It seemed to be an indication of not only the increasing population, but a gratifying interest in community affairs on the part of both new and old residents.

The chairman, after the reading of the minutes by Secretary Suits, called for an expression of whatever they wished to bring before the chamber. Mrs. Mary Hickson arose and speaking for Mrs. C. W. Young, chairman of the civic improvement committee of the Twentieth Century club, stated the feeling in the club that Eagle Rock should become known as "The Dahlia City," having had for years as a resident and famous prize dahlia grower, J. J. Broomall. She asked the indorsement of the chamber for this idea.

Mr. Broomall had offered to help in every way possible and to enable every householder to plant dahlias, making them conspicuous to passerby. The plan which originated with Mrs. M. T. Lee, president of the club, also calls for an exhibit every autumn, with prizes.

Sherrill B. Osborne spoke strongly in favor of the project. He moved that the chamber indorse the club's indorsement.

The motion was seconded and carried. Mr. Osborne also moved that a committee of three be appointed by the chamber to cooperate with the club in making Eagle Rock known as the dahlia city, and it was so ordered.

Scout Executive Benner spoke of the men of tomorrow—our boys—and said Eagle Rock was a pioneer city in Scout work, having been one of the first communities in this vicinity to organize a troop, several years ago, under the leadership of R. L. McNitt. It disbanded some time ago, but a new troop has been organized and Eagle Rock is represented on all the committees of the council which covers Glendale, Burbank, and Eagle Rock. He said it is planned to have a big entertainment here on Monday evening, March 13, in aid of the Scouts and all organizations are asked to support it. He hoped the chamber of commerce would get back of it and boost it.

M. H. Berry, Jr., a member of the publicity committee of the chamber, advocated a slogan for Eagle Rock and thought prizes should be offered for one, suggesting $10, $5 and $2. After some discussion, Emil Swanson moved that the chamber indorse such a contest and that the publicity committee conduct it and appoint judges. It was carried, and individual members present offered to donate the prizes.

C. P. Chamberlain, electrician and inventor, gave information about the electric lighting of street signs and advised electric letters for the signs which it is proposed to erect by private subscription at the three entrances to the city.

The matter of improved postal service came up, one of the members having inquired of the authorities why ever since the new postoffice was established here all dropped letters, even addressed to local parties, have been sent to Los Angeles to be stamped, instead of bearing an Eagle Rock postmark, and thus have usually been detained until the second day for delivery. The reason assigned was that the local office has not yet been provided with cancellation equipment, which seems rather heedless government work.

With regard to the opening of Hill avenue to connect with Colorado boulevard, thus forming a pleasure drive that would give the public a hitherto unsuspected idea of the beauties of our foothill scenery and the class of residences along the route, Percy Schumacher of a committee appointed to investigate, stated that certain large property holders on the avenue had withdrawn their objections to the project. The committee in charge of it will ask the chamber of commerce to request the city engineers to review the grades that were established seven years ago and call for bids to do the work of modifying them.

From unofficial information the conclusion was reached that no relief from the overcrowding of the cars on the Eagle Rock and Hawthorne line can be expected until next fall, and then it is altogether likely that higher fares will have to be paid. The expensive steel cars which were ordered for the Eagle Rock line and used for a short time on it have been put on the Main and Moneta avenue line on account of the still greater need of them there.

The membership committe reported about 60 new names recently obtained.

THANKS OFFERING $606

The Women's Foreign Missionary society annual thanks offering was taken Sunday morning at the First Methodist church and the offering came to $606. There was also a pledge of $500 given for the Isabel Thoburn college in India. Mrs. May Chisholm Brown, a missionary from China, gave a splendid talk on the educational work being done there.

Sooner or later a woman is supposed to find that her husband actually knew what he was talking about.

Usually people who make the most imposing show have to impose on others to make it.

PAST PRESIDENT OF PRESS CLUB

The Eagle Rock representative of the Glendale Press, Mrs. Clara S. Ellis, is one of the past presidents of the Southern California Woman's Press club who were cited to appear at a meeting of the club Tuesday afternoon in the Ebell clubhouse, Los Angeles, receive honors, and relate some incident of their experience while in office.

Mrs. Ellis, an early president, and one of the two founders as well, told of the prejudice against a woman's press club that existed in the '90s, particularly on the part of the newspapers of Los Angeles, who at that time employed few women.

YOUNG MAN—HERE'S YOUR CHANCE!

This farm holds independence for you. This may be YOUR opportunity. Listen—40 acres of the finest soil within 3 miles of good town, a Santa Fe stop, in King county. All the water you can use FREE, this being secured from the people's ditch which taps the Kings river. On this place is a small house, large barn—in fact, everything ready to go to work. Owner is old and must quit. This is excellent alfalfa, grape, orchard land, and would make fine turkey or chicken ranch. Everything is ripe for a man to make real money.

The price on this ranch is $170 per acre, or $7,000 for the whole place. A payment as small as $500 down will be accepted, or owner could make use of a good automobile. Remember this farm is only 9 miles south of Hanford in one of the most fertile sections of San Jauquin valley. Let us tell you about this.

TRUSTEESHIP IS SERMON SUBJECT

Rev. Edwards Talks on Trusts and Combinations of Mankind

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning on "Trusteeship," from the text, "According to the glorious gospel of the blessed Lord, which was committed to my trust." (I Tim. 1:11.) A resume follows:

"The air is full of trusts. We find ourselves in a world of combinations. The church is a combination—we know what for, and where we are going. Paul said this gospel of the glory was given to him, and he held it as a trust. It is not a thing to be kept wrapped up, hidden; it is for the everyday good of mankind. We are sure of the dividend.

"When you become a Christian, thereby you become a trustee. You come into possession of eternal life. This life speaks in words and deeds. Your daily life must be an example of what the gospel can do with a sinner,—it is an obligation. Now, here lies a danger of becoming narrow, contracted. Paul said, 'Walk circumspectly,' as if with eyes on all sides of the head, seeing in all directions. We need to know what our Lord is doing; and to that end we need to read with keen attention the daily news of the world, heeding everything that shows His stately steppings. Be an intelligent Christian; know how to think and pray for the world. Read our papers on our knees.

"It follows that we are trustees for our country. Citizenship is a solemn responsibility. The times demand extraordinary Christians, 'salt of the earth.'

"As believers in the gospel of the glory, we are trustees of our children. God gave them to us, we are responsible. And also for the children of the community. The young person who goes bad affects the whole community. The future of the rising generation is the most serious question before the church today. The young will go forth and either build up or tear down. The atmosphere of our schools is increasingly becoming materialistic and even hostile to the Bible. Where are the young going to get their definite Christian training? The church has got to rise up and meet this thing. The amusements of the day are mixed with perils which we are bound to heed. And the immodest dress of the maidens who should be modest—what are the mothers thinking of?

"Trustees we are, for the evangelization of the world. From Bethlehem till now the gospel of the glory has been pre-eminently a missionary gospel, and to face this trust we must have a missionary conscience. Paul said, 'I am a debtor,' he had something that didn't belong to him to keep. You are trustees of the gospel, having all its benefits—pay your debts! All that you have comes to you in trust.

"This particular church has a very distinct responsibility. It is a member of a family, the presbytery, with all its varied work. Above that, the synod, and above that, the general assembly. Each one of us lies under these obligations.

"Since God has for Christ's sake forgiven us, and set us in heavenly places, we ought to face the world with a missionary heart. Jesus Christ died of a broken heart. 'Give me a heart like Thine!'

"As we see the need of the world, it brings us to stewardship. God will never bless you as long as you put His debt behind, Your debt to Him is first. You are not your own, you are bought with a price."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

OLIN M. DOW.

Olin M. Dow died Sunday afternoon at 3.30 at his home, 1223 East Lexington drive at the age of 28 years. He was born in Portland, Oregon, March 4, 1894 and was a piano tuner by profession, working for his uncle, Mr. Fitzgerald of the Fitzgerald Music company, Los Angeles.

He leaves to mourn his death, his mother, Mrs, Susie B. Dow, and three brothers, Frank E. Dow of Seattle, Charleston and Gerald of Glendale.

Mr. Dow was a member of the Christian Science church and in his boyhood days attended the Broadway school, later attending Glendale high school for two years.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the chapel at Grand View cemetery. Pulliam & Kiefer are in charge.

Arthur Milton Huntington, the author and collector, speaking at a dinner, said:

"When a war profiteer begins to collect the spectacle is amusing. A New York profiteer was visited by a book agent who tried to sell him a very elaborate dictionary for his library. 'This dictionary,' said the book agent, 'has all the latest modern improvements, sir. It includes the newest technical and scientific terms, and there isn't a feature lacking that goes to make a first-class work of the kind.'

"'Let's have a look at her,' grunted the profiteer. He examined the dictionary a moment, then he handed it back. 'Young-feller,' he said, 'you can't work the book off on me.'

"'What's the matter with the book?' said the agent.

"'She ain't got no copious index,' said the profiteer."

There is a vigorous demand for a device that will compel a man to shut up when he has said enough.

INAUGURATE NEW HOUSE NUMBER SYSTEM.

Are Stenciled on Curbing Where They Are More Quickly Seen

Something new in the way of house numbers has made its appearance in Glendale, this is to stencil the numbers of the home on the curbing so that they may be plainly seen from the street. The value of a features of this kind is the saving of time of merchants making delivery or of anyone to locate any particular dwelling. Glendale is the first city in which the curb house numbering feature has been introduced, and judging from the way it is being received it is practically assured that very soon Glendale's home will be easily found through these curb numbers.

These numbers are being installed by the California House Numbering company, 828 East Villa street, Pasadena, of which H. D. Salveter is proprietor. The first number to be put on by this company was for Mr. Cookingham at 229 Central avenue. Quite a number of other homes have been numbered by this concern.

THE TURKEY HEN

Turkeys mate from February 1 to March 15 and April 1, according to the type and age of the hen.

There are two types of turkey hens—one the egg type and the othre the meat type. The egg type hen will lay one clutch of eggs, set and hatch, and begin to lay a second clutch before a meat-type hen begins to lay the first clutch. This egg-type hen is usually a small hen, weighing from ten to twelve pounds.

The meat-type hen is large, weighing from 12 to 25 pounds or more. They have the good quality of producing big-boned, large-framed birds—but they also have some undesirable traits, often laying but one clutch of eggs, many of which are soft-shelled and perhaps infertile.

When they start to set it is almost impossible to break them up, and if set they are very apt to break the eggs. They are poor mothers, are very clumsy and kill many of the little fellows. We had one which weighed 28 pounds; she proved almost as worthless for raising poults as an ostrich.

It is well to watch the hens, observe these qualities and mark them in one of the many ways so that you can hold them for your next year's work and thereby raise the flock to the highest point of efficiency.

Occasionally an insurance policy makes a man more valuable after his demise than he was during life.

A pessimist's life is seldom as great a burden to him as it is to his neighbors.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

DISCOVERED

The man was killed,
There was no doubt,
Suspects were grilled,
Dragnets thrown out:
Over all the space,
Detectives roamed,
Until each place
Was closely combed.

Justice white-robed
Must be appeased,
And so they probed,
And never ceased;
Till many a man
Who did no ill
Was in the pan
Or on the grill.

Each day the press
Gave us the news
Some more, some less,
Of rechecked clews;
More interview,
More persons grilled,
This fact they knew:
The man was killed.

The more they roamed,
And sought the clew,
And searched and combed
The less they knew;
Heaven, earth they moved,
And probed and grilled,
This fact they proved:
The man was killed!

TUJUNGA NEWS TO BE GIVEN BY PRESS

American Legion Vaudeville Plays to Crowded Houses; Big Success

TUJUNGA, March 6.—The Glendale Daily Press in furtherance of its policy of giving its readers all the news all the time, has started a column devoted to the interests of Tujunga and the Monte Vista valley. Any news or personal items should be reported to Carroll Parcher at the corner of Monte Vista and San Ysidro streets.

Playing to a full house on both Friday and Saturday nights, the American Legion vaudeville was considered a success in every way. Every number on the well filled program was well worth the applause it received, while those in the "Spinsters' Convention" deserve special mention for their excellent work. The parts in the one-act plays were exceptionally well cast, and the monologue, musical and dancing features clever and charming. The Legion Post will devote the proceeds toward paying for Bolton hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wells entertained a number of friends at an informal affair given at their home, "Wellscroft," on Saturday night. A delightful evening was spent with music and dancing. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Addison. E. Wells, Judge and Mrs. Sidney Reeve, Mr. and Mrs. Kichner, Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Hartranft, Mr. and Mrs. Will Chaplin, the three sons of the hostess, Addison, Albert and Fred Wells, the Misses Alice and Helen Kelly, Miss Frances Morgan, Carroll Parcher and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wells.

Arthur Zachau, proprietor of Zachau's grocery in the Fisher building on the highway, has recently sold the business to a Mr. Patterson from Pasadena. The new owner purchased the store on Thursday and took possession on Saturday. He has rented the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Porter on the corner of Sunset and Greely streets where he will make his home for the present. Mr. and Mrs. Porter have moved to Los Angeles.

J. W. Taylor is erecting a brick building on the highway next to the Tujunga Lumber and Supply company's building to house an up-to-date plumbing business. The building is to be of two stories and will contain apartments or offices. Mr. Taylor is a plumber of long experience and will open a first-class shop.

NEW AIR-LIGHTHOUSE.

PARIS, MARCH 4.—It has been decided to erect on Mount Afrique, near Dijon, the most powerful air-lighthouse in the world, which will be visible to night-flying airplans as far as 250 miles. The new air-lighthouse will have the enormous candlepower of one billion—more than ten times as powerful as the great Navesink light at the entrance of New York bay with its 60,000,000 candle-power. In ordinary weather conditions the range of the light will be from one hundred to two hundred miles but in clear weather and at great heights the range will reach two hundred and fifty miles.

TREASURE ON THE TRAIL.

CROCKETT, Texas, March 4.—Buried treasure has been found here. For the past fifty years, at different times, searchers have dug in this vicinity and in the country through which the old San Antonio Trail, known as the King's Highway, passes. A pot of treasure was recently uncovered near here by a local resident. The pot was filled with silver coins, trinklets, medals and a few pieces of old jewelry—all in perfect state of preservation. The dates on the coins—1795 to 1812—furnished the only clew to when the pot was buried.

PROFITEERING IN WIVES.

LONDON, March 4.—Profiteering has spread not only all over the world, but has spread to the wife-market, Lord Dewar said in a speech here. "Before the war," he said, "a wife could be bought for four spearheads in Sudan. Now she costs eight. In the cattle country a wife used to cost four cows; now she costs seven.

SERMON ON FAITH AS FACTOR IN HEALING

Dr. H. C. Funk Holds Satan Responsible for All Sickness

In a sermon on "Faith as a Factor in Healing Disease" preached by Dr. H. C. Funk Sunday, March 5, at the Lutheran Mission, corner of Harvard and Maryland avenue, from the text: "Thy faith hath made thee whole," he said in part:

"In a former address on 'A Cure for Nervous Troubles' we held that disease is of the devil. That is, satan is the original cause of all sickness, of all sin and sorrow.

"We have shown that men like Milton, Pope and Carlyle rose above their suffering and became benefactors to their fellowmen. That does not prove, however, that the Almighty sent these afflictions upon them either as a punishment or a form of discipline.

"No earthly parent would afflict his own child with cancer or tuberculosis as a punishment. The history of disease does show that God is merciful; and that He bestows His grace, the strength to endure and to overcome these baneful influences.

"Sin and suffering are in the world as a result of the fall; yet God will not permit us to be tried beyond that which are able to bear. He will often bring good out of evil. Yea, the wrath of man is often made to praise God; and so suffering may become the refiner's fire that separates the gold from the dross.

"You will observe that our teaching is in no wise to be compared to those who deny the reality of sin and sickness by declaring them to be illusions. We do as the Saviour and His disciples did, admit the fact of their awful reality, and through faith in the atoning merits of Christ we strive to overcome them. Christ is the Divine Healer. The prophecies made clear this truth, that Christ would come with healing in his wings. "Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. Then shall the lame man leap as an dart, and the dumb shall sing." And in Luke, 7-22, we have the fulfilment: 'Then Jesus answering said unto them, go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard; how the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached."

Touching on the question of the theraputic value of religious fasts, Dr. Funk declared that heavy meat eaters must have their Java, and they also want their wine and cigars; and some people wonder, why? Well, much meat eating produces a demon thirst, and the stimulants, which are poisonous in themselves, countefact the meat-poisoning. A religious observance of a fast, consisting of abstinence from meat on Wednesday and Friday, not only during Lent, but throughout our whole lives would add to the efficiency of every man and woman.

MATTISON B. JONES RETURNS FROM BUSY TRIP

Grand High Priest, R. A. M. Tells of Activities on Journey North

Mattison B. Jones, Grand High Priest, R. A. M., is again at home. In reviewing his recent journeyings in the north he said: "I left Friday, the 24th, for Santa Maria, where a joint meeting was held between Fidelity Chapter of that city and La Purissima Chapter of Lompec. Saturday night, the 24th, I was at San Luis Obispo at a meeting of the San Luis chapter and Paso Robles Chapter of Paso Robles. Monday night I was in Oakland at a union meeting of six chapters of Alameda county and three from Contra Costa county. Tuesday night I was in San Francisco where five chapters of that city and county came together to receive me. Wednesday night I visited Bakersfield Chapter. Meetings were to have been held at Visalia, Modesto and Coalinga but were called off because of influenza, which seems to be reacning its climax in that locality. Further north it is abating. The schools were to be closed at Visalia. I will make another visit to those cities some time this monta if conditions warrant.

"The Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons will hold its annual convention in San Francisco at the Masonic Temple April 18 and 19. I shall of course attend and that will finish my year's work as Grand High Priest."

SELLING BIBLES TO DEAD PEOPLE WAS HIS TRADE

SAN DIEGO, March 6.—Here's the latest profession for the dishonest man—selling Bibles to dead people!

According to Dave Gershon, special agent of the U. S. Department of Justice, here's the way it's being worked:

The "promoter," clipped the death notices from all the papers. Then he sent Bibles to all the persons mentioned in the column, accompanied with a letter thanking the person for his or her kind order, and expressing the hops that he or she would be perfectly satisfied.

When the Bible arrived, the husband, wife or child, or other relatives of the deceased open the letter, and probably thought—"Wasn't that nice—the last thing he or she did on earth was to buy a fine leather-bound Bible.

In practically all cases, the relatives sent the money to the promoter—to "keep faith" with the deceased order.

The department of justice ran the promoter down, and here was the impudent answer received:

"You can't touch me, because you can't prove that an order wasn't given for the Bibles. The only way you could prove it was on the word of the person himself, and he's dead."

And he, legally speaking, had the "drop" on the department of justice. The department, however, ran him out of the district on a threat of "vagging him."

Few people trouble themselves to generate enthusiasm for things in which they have no interest.

Yours for Service on All Makes of Batteries

You can't expect your battery to go on without service any more than you can expect your tires to stand up without air or your motor to work without oil!

Battery service is our business. We have the equipment, the skill and the knowledge that enables us to make your battery last longer and serve better.

We always recommend Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries, but don't get the idea that you can't get the Willard Standard of Service unless you have a Willard Battery. We have only one grade of service here at Battery Headquarters—and everybody gets it on the same basis whether he's a Willard user or not.
